Hi David,

At some stage I made a diary note for today "DH mth low for bounce".

I watched the US market go into buy mode around 4:30 am despite poor economic data - buyers having decided the low stock values were too compelling.

The SPI's dragged itself back up to 4316 from a spike down to 4243 which was rejected.

I nibble STW yest arvo just before the market close at 40.80 stop 40.60. I nibble JHX at 5.18 now has rally nicely at 5.26. Thinking to go more aggressive on both maybe this arvo?

Also like to thank you, banking nice profit yest from shorting WBC and slapping Nick. I must say since becoming a PHGer i have constantly manage to make money in this bear market.

Thanks again.

Hi David

Just a quick email to say thanks for the wonderful service you're providing.

I've only been in the Profit Hunters Group for two weeks, but I thought you might be interested to know that the effect of your advice on my options trading has been that I've banked more profits over that time than at any other stage over the last ten years that I've been dabbling in shares - really exciting stuff!

About the only downside I can see at the moment is that my wife thinks that increased profits = a great excuse to do more internet shopping.

Regards

Darrell [REDACTED]
